

50-4-50 Challenge

This Summer the Social Work Benevolent Trust (SWBT) is celebrating 50 years of supporting social workers and all want to raise the profile of the Trust and raise funds to help more Social Workers in difficulties. Here's what some of the trustees are up to:

Julian
Run

Simon

SWBT treasurer, is fundraising by undertaking to sell at least 50 copies of his book, "Making a Difference: reflections of a children's social worker". Available for £10 at www.mereobooks.com

Walk

Pete

My plan is "Jogging 50 kilometres during June", but I hope to make that 50 miles; and hoping to raise £300 for the Trust. I hope to raise more than that, with no upper limit though I shall be surprised, and pleasantly so, if I manage to raise £500.

Liz

My challenge for 50-4-50 is to be sponsored knitting 50 premature baby hats and 50 premature baby blankets by the date of SWBT 50th Anniversary. I am aiming for a £250 target.

Rupert

My 50 for 50 will be running or cycling every day for 50 days, finishing on the day that SWBT is 50. (A minimum of 5 miles each day).
